Greg Anderson - vocals, guitar
Kevin Riordan - bass
Mike Hoff - drums
Brad Pollard – guitar, vocals

Emerging in late 2009, ex-Replicas took the stage for their first show with Baltimore's Avec and Brooklyn's Nakotomi Plaza, on that band's final tour. Formed by Greg Anderson as an outlet for writing and recording solo material, it quickly evolved into a group designed to bring the music to a live audience.

Built around the core of vocalist/guitarist Anderson (All the Dead's Pilots, Bodyhuman, Statues Never Sleep, Moviegoer), the group features veteran Baltimore indie-rock musicians Kevin Riordan (The Alameda), drummer Mike Hoff (Moviegoer, Pulaski) and guitar/vocalist Brad Pollard (Wires Band).

With a sound that has been called "melodic", "quirky" and "just really good", the band has shared the stage with such notable acts as Fulton Lights, Nakotomi Plaza, Andalusians, Bear Hands, El Ten Eleven, Avec, Impossible Hair, Miniature Tigers, Spinto Band, Gray Young and Squaaks.

After less than a year of writing, the band recorded their first full-length album in 2010, a self-titled twelve-track effort, written and recorded collectively in the band's Baltimore rehearsal studio. The album was released in February 2011 on Anchor Records.
